

Who We Are

RP Constructors is a full-service engineering, procurement, and construction (EPC) company when you include our wholly-owned subsidiary, Civil Engineers & Constructors.

We provide high-quality construction with an impeccable safety record – all while completing your project on time and within budget.

We work in various market sectors and have experience with municipal/governmental, industrial, and private/commercial entities. No matter what you do, we can help you do it better.

Designed to be built and built to work

Our engineers are wired a bit differently. The way engineers think and the way contractors think are not always aligned. Engineers that can do both construction and design are unusual. Although they're hard to find, we've built an entire team of engineers that embrace this method of thinking. We like it like that, and so do our clients. It gives them a hell of an advantage because they're getting two for the price of one.

It means our projects get completed faster because we don't have to go back to the drawing board again and again to re-design something that didn't work the first time.

Top 3 Things Our Clients Love

1

Financial strength

Our insurance runs to a minimum of $10 million and we can bond multiples of that number.

2

Ability to respond

Our entire team works in-house so you're never far away from the person you need the most.

3

End to end process

Clients work with the same team from project start to finish

The ability to self-perform the work is our competitive advantage

“Self-perform” means that we do the work ourselves end-to-end, from the initial surveying of the site, to the design stage, and all the way through the construction process. This is better for our clients because it streamlines the entire project and you always have one person to contact no matter what stage you’re in.

Our “boots on the ground” mentality means our local team is hands on, working at your site every day. If a pump overflows at 3 am, we’ll be right there next to you actively finding a long-term solution.

That’s what makes us one of Sioux City Metro’s top companies, both in civil engineering and heavy civil construction.

What it’s like working with us

Trust the experts at RP Constructors to get the job done right. We have the education, licenses and certifications, and experience to complete your project on time, within budget, and with high-quality work.

Our team has worked on a variety of municipal/government, industrial, and private/commercial projects.

Our clients receive the value of a full-service experience and constructing something that works.

Plus, we stand behind all our work. If a job is not completed to our satisfaction, we’ll find a way to fix it and won’t send you a bill. Sure, that’s not what most other guys do, but it’s the right thing to do.

Call or email us today and tell us about your project. We love solving the problems you don’t even know you have.
